Where do you live?

_____ August 13 - 22 _____ September 24 - October 7

In a couple of paragraphs, please describe why you want to come to Bubbawood. What about the place or the residency resonates with you?

During your proposed stay, what do you aim to do? If you have a particular project in mind, please describe it here. Otherwise, a short description about your interests and previous work is helpful.

Have you spent time in the wild or experienced alternative/rugged living? Please briefly tell us about your experience.

Bubbawood is created and built by the people who stay here. We encourage residents to participate and contribute to the place by sharing in daily chores, basic upkeep, and occasional work projects. We love it when residents coordinate with us to create structures, artworks, or embellishments that stay on the land. How do you feel about sharing labor and participatory space-making?

Bubbawood residencies culminate in a public event. Opportunities for community engagement are possible through a variety of local organizations and individuals. Please describe your approach to working with the public, either through a singular event or over an extended period.

Residents are supported to be self-sufficient and self-motivated. They are expected to provide their own transportation and food. Residents will need to walk roughly 500 feet from the parking area to the cabin, including a very steep trail of about 100 feet (we have a cart you can use to transport items). Given the rugged terrain and alternative living situations happening here, Bubbawood cannot accommodate people with significant mobility or medical challenges. Can you agree to these conditions?

Residents stay in a small off-grid cabin with a full size bed. It is ideal for one person, but doable for two. We welcome couples to apply, if both people are engaged in the place and the residency. We cannot accommodate cats or dogs at this point; if you have an alternative pet, you may inquire. If you hope to bring someone for part or all of your residency, please describe the situation here.

Bubbawood residencies are open to all kinds of creative disciplines - including builders, artists, writers, musicians, researchers, performers, teachers, scientists, community organizers, activists or otherwise. Anyone who feels compelled to spend time at Bubbawood is encouraged to apply! In order to better understand the kinds of things you do, we ask to see some relevant work samples. Please provide 5-10 images/samples of past work such as images, writing samples, short videos or sound files. Please include a one-sentence description for each work sample.

List three references and their contact information. Briefly note your relationship to each reference.

Please provide a current CV or resume if you have one.
